PORN ADDICTION | Your Essential Guide to Identification, Assessment and Treatment

Porn addiction is becoming an epidemic. The statistics overwhelm us. And yet the DSM-5™ does not recognize this crippling emotional issue.

It is likely that you were not trained to deal with this – and being unprepared could cause you to fall short of helping your clients and their loved ones. For these reasons, it’s vital you attend this 3-hour webcast to learn how to identify, assess and create treatment plans that are proven to work.

Porn addiction can be very hard to identify and treat - and it can be uncomfortable to discuss with a client. This course will provide you with a proven start-to-finish plan for addressing these challenging cases.

You’ll get step-by-step guidance on how to:

- Get to the root of why someone becomes addicted to porn
- Understand the relationship between trauma and sex-related addictions
- Reduce the shame a client has related to porn addiction
- Recognize how this hidden addiction presents itself as other common client problems
- Correctly question/interview the client to assess for addiction and severity
- Implement long-term strategies that go beyond sobriety to treat the root cause and help heal the partner and family.

Speaker

Chris Samuels, Ph.D., is a clinical psychologist who has specialized in the treatment of problematic sexual behavior for more than 25 years. A pioneer in the field of sexual addiction, Dr. Samuels began her work in 1989 with Patrick Carnes, clinician and author of landmark books on sexual addiction, including Out of the Shadows (1983) and Don’t Call It Love (1991). In 1992, Dr. Samuels founded and serves as the executive director of The Sexual Addiction Treatment and Training Institute (SATTI), the foremost treatment facility in the New York metropolitan area. Known for a compassionate and nonjudgmental approach to treatment, SATTI clinicians offer evaluation and treatment for individuals, groups, and families who are struggling with sexual addiction and related problematic sexual behavior. In addition, SATTI offers training and supervision for mental health professionals as well as a range of consultation services to businesses, mental health organizations, religious institutions, and the media concerning sexual addiction, sexual harassment, and other problematic sexual behavior. For more information about Dr. Samuels and SATTI, please visit: www.thesattigroup.com and www.sexualaddictionintensive.com.

Speaker Disclosure:
Financial: Chris Samuels is the executive director of The Sexual Addiction Treatment and Training Institute (SATTI). She receives a speaking honorarium from PESI, Inc.
Non-financial: Chris Samuels has no relevant non-financial relationship to disclose.
