Objectives

1. Appraise the legal and ethical challenges posed by telehealth for mental health professionals in a clinical setting.
2. Specify youth safety and HIPAA compliance challenges associated with telemental health and its clinical implications.
3. Analyze the evidence supporting the effectiveness of telemental health for children, adolescents, and families as it relates to clinical treatment.
4. Analyze the utilization of technology in your sessions, both the hardware and software of telehealth to determine the best fit for individual practitioners.
5. Determine the clinical implications of the unique policies and procedures needed for telehealth.
6. Integrate play therapy interventions in a telehealth setting to promote communication skills in clients.
7. Appraise privacy, security and confidentiality concerns related to technology use in clinical practice.
8. Differentiate how client expectations differ for telehealth as compared to in-person therapy and what that means for clinical treatment.
9. Assess and implement therapeutic game interventions in a telehealth environment.
10. Assess and implement non-directive play therapy techniques in a telehealth environment.
11. Assess and implement talk therapy techniques with children and adolescents in a telehealth setting.
12. Demonstrate how to implement parent interventions to assess accurate real time information of child's symptoms.

Telemental Health Certification Course

A Step-by-Step Guide to Successful Virtual Sessions with Children, Adolescents and Families

You could handle anything a child or teen client threw at you in your office. From extreme disengagement to hyperactivity, you could overcome any client challenge and your office was equipped with every potential game, tool or intervention to immediately engage, calm, or respond to a client. Given your extensive education, training and experience... why are you not achieving those results in a telehealth setting?

Now you can. Whether you're managing clients with ADHD, ODD or any disruptive behavioral orders... learn how to setup, establish and optimize a telehealth practice for kids, teen and family therapy. And, upon completing this two-day seminar, you can receive instant credibility and authority with a telemental health certification!

This online certification course provides comprehensive yet easy-to-understand instructions on everything you need to know right now about practicing telemental health including ethics, technical & logistical setup, safety concerns and so much more.

ADDITIONALLY – you get access to practical, tested and updated telehealth interventions for children, adolescents and their parents. Upon completing this seminar, you can instantly implement unique technical strategies for Zoom, and other technology platforms, to elevate – and sustain – client engagement. You will leave this seminar with a robust telehealth toolbox that adapts your “in-person” interventions into a virtual setting. You will achieve improved clinical outcomes with effective telehealth practices in talk therapy, play therapy, and nondirective play therapy.

Meet Your Speaker

Dr. Amy Marschall, Psy.D., is a licensed clinical psychologist in South Dakota. Dr. Marschall works primarily with children and adolescents, adopting telemental health strategies early into her clinical practices. In 2016, Dr. Marschall helped develop a telemental health task force at Sioux Falls Psychological Services to develop an ethical and effective model to provide telehealth services to individuals living in rural South Dakota without access to mental health resources. Dr. Marschall co-developed and presented a six-hour seminar on ethical and legal guidelines for telemental health in 2017 and has been providing these services in South Dakota since that time.

Speaker Disclosure:

Financial: Amy Marschall works in a group practice. She also maintains a website to share therapy resources with parents and other clinicians. She receives a speaking honorarium from PESI, Inc.
Non-financial: Amy Marschall has no relevant non-financial relationship to disclose.
