Meeting the Trauma-Related Needs of Victims of Human Trafficking

Are you prepared to work with victims of human trafficking when he or she walks through your office door? Maybe, you currently have a client—hidden in plain sight—on your case load. They can't speak out, so it is imperative that you learn the warning signs.

Understanding trauma is not enough to provide accurate and effective care for the struggles these survivors have endured. Complex trauma is overlaid with brainwashing and Stockholm Syndrome, providing an extremely complicated set of needs in this population.

Join human trafficking expert Dr. Shari Kim as she guides you through these must have identification and treatment techniques that specifically addresses a survivor's unique set of needs related to repeated and intrusive trauma. Attend and you'll learn how to:

- Identify the signs a client has been trafficked including what to watch for in-session
- Discern between victims of sex trafficking, labor trafficking, child soldiers, and organ donation
- Effectively treat symptoms of PTSD, Stockholm Syndrome, and brainwashing
- Reduce co-occurring disorders such as shame, anxiety and substance abuse
- Create the appropriate therapeutic environment to enable the best clinical outcomes
- Facilitate post traumatic growth to help clients find meaning after trauma

Register today and you'll leave with the tools to safely and skillfully guide clients through the transformation from being a victim to a survivor!

Target Audience:

Psychologists • Social Workers • Counselors • Addiction Professionals • Case Workers
