GRIEF TREATMENT Certification Course

Your clients have spent two years besieged by death, loss and uncertainty.

For many there will be no "return to normal" -- driving more grieving clients than ever before into the care of professionals.

But for far too long graduate school grief education has neglected to cover assessment, complex grief, non-death grief and clinical interventions. The result? Therapists like you often feel unprepared to provide grief-related services.

It's time to change all that.

Dr. Christina Zampitella is a clinical psychologist and recognized grief expert who's trained thousands of professionals on grief work. In this all NEW live 2-day certification training she'll show you how you can confidently counsel and treat grieving clients and help them integrate loss into their lives.

Complete evidence-based tools, proven strategies you can use right away, and case studies that make the work understandable, relevant and attainable you'll leave able to:

- Tailor clinical interventions to the uniqueness of each client's grief
- Counsel and treat clients who experienced different types of losses
- Build clients' resilience and help them make meaning
- Reduce symptoms of complicated grief
- Walk with clients on the path toward post-traumatic growth
- And much more!

Best of all, upon completion of this training, you'll be eligible to become a Certified Grief Informed Professional (CGP) through Evergreen Certifications letting colleagues, employers, and clients know that you've invested the extra time and effort necessary to understand the complexities of grief.

Don't wait. The grief pandemic is one of the greatest mental health crises of our time and clients need your help now.
